HUNDREDS KILLED BY TERRIFIC STORM THAT SWEEPS OVER THE NORTH CENTRAL STATES

Omaha Struck by Tornado; Buildings Wrecked; Scores Lose Lives and Suffer Injuries by Falling Buildings and Flying Debris; Eastern Nebraska and Western Iowa in Path of the Cyclone

TERRE HAUTE, IND., SUFFERS HEAVILY FROM EFFECTS OF WORST STORM IN YEARS WIRES ARE DOWN AND RESCUE WORK IS HAMPERED BY INSURMOUNTABLE OBSTACLES—IMPOSSIBLE TO DETERMINE NUMBER OF DEAD AND INJURED UNTIL RELIEF CAN COPE WITH SITUATION.

CHICAGO, March 24. (Monday) An unconfirmed report received by the Chicago office of the Western Union Telegraph company at Denver says that 1,000 persons have been killed or injured in the tornado at Omaha and that the city is burning. This information was received by the Western Union from Grand Island, Neb., the nearest city to Omaha with which the telegraph company officials were able to communicate.

LINCOLN, Neb., March 23. Mayor Dahlman of Omaha has asked the governor to call out militia to prevent looting.

CHICAGO, March 23.—It is reported that a cyclone has struck Omaha, prostrating wires and unroofing houses. All telegraph lines are down and communication with the city is cut off. The storm is said to be headed east.

FALLS CITY, Neb., March 23. Half of the city of Omaha was swept by a tornado early tonight, according to information gained here by long distance telephone. All railroad and commercial telegraph lines into Omaha are out of commission. Berlin, a small town near Omaha, damaged by the storm, is said to be on fire.

LINCOLN, Neb., March 23. A tornado, forming near Greenwood, today swept over the eastern part of the state, resulting in the death of at least 20 persons, while 10 more are missing and more than a hundred are injured.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 23. An unconfirmed report from Marshalltown, Iowa, tonight said there had been loss of life at Ackley, Woodbine and Carroll, Iowa, as a result of a storm which swept Iowa and Nebraska today.

GREENCASTLE, Ind., March 23. Perth, a mining town 10 miles west of here was practically wiped out by a tornado tonight. Many persons were injured, but no loss of life has been reported. The property loss is estimated at $50,000.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., March 23.—Six persons were killed, houses were unroofed and many thousands of dollars of damage was done at Woodbine, Iowa, by the storm which swept that section tonight, according to an unconfirmed report.

Several persons are reported killed at Craig, Neb.

There was only one wire out of Sioux City after 9 o'clock tonight and it was impossible to ascertain the loss of life in Iowa.

CHICAGO, March 23. Several persons were reported killed and many injured at Galesburg, Ill., tonight, according to reports to the American Telephone and Telegraph company here.

KANSAS CITY, March 23. At the Union Pacific offices here it was said tonight that it had been reported from the Beatrice office of the road that the town of Yutan, Neb., had

Death Toll Will Run Very High

CHICAGO, March 23.—A terrific wind storm, causing widespread destruction and loss of life and property, wrecking the already demoralized telegraph service, raged over the central west and middle states late today. Reports from Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa and Indiana indicate heavy damage, but owing to the wrecking of the telegraph lines, the reports are fragmentary and lacking in detail.

Omaha, Berlin, Ashland and Yutan, Nebraska, the latter towns near Omaha; Marshalltown, Ackley, Woodbine and Carroll, Ia.; Terre Haute, Ind., and Abilene, Kan., are places from which scattering messages carrying the news of grave destruction have been received.

For more than four hours no word was received from the stricken city of Omaha. Late bulletins report that half the city was swept by a tornado. All wires were down, and Berlin, a neighboring town, was said to be in flames. The messages were received

Terre Haute Hit Hard by Storm

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., March 23.—Loss of life and severe property damage was caused by a tornado which wiped out the southern part of Terre Haute at 10 o'clock tonight.

At 12 o'clock seven bodies had been recovered. Scores were injured and property damage will reach into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

All wires were blown down in the district affected. This prevented rescue work, although every available fireman and policeman was rushed to the stricken district.

It is expected the death list will be more than a dozen.

With no warning, the terrific gale swept down upon the district. Part of the Root Glass company's plant was flattened. The end of the foundry room of the Gartland factory, a solid brick wall 18 inches thick, was caved in. Brick and stone structures suffered alike.

Lightning set fire to many houses. Men, women and children were crushed to death in bed. Some escaped to the

10 KILLED IN YUTAN, NEB., AND THEN FIRE BREAKS OUT IN CITY

LINCOLN, Neb., March 23.—Yutan, 16 miles north of Ashland, suffered the most of any city, and 10 people are missing at that place, while 50 more are injured. With the waterworks out of commission at that place, a fire broke out and the entire place was threatened with destruction.

The known dead in Yutan are:

MRS. GILLSTER.
MRS. SEINEBAUGH and BABY.
FRED HAYENS and TWO CHILDREN.
MR. AND MRS. A. R. HAMMOND and TWO CHILDREN.
MR. AND MRS. HERMAN STARMAN.

The known dead elsewhere:

BABY DAUGHTER of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ohnf, killed on a farm near Mead.
HENRY HICKORY, killed on a farm near Mead.

Valley Still, north of Yutan, was reported hard hit, with 10 people missing and many others injured.

Much property was destroyed by the wind. The heaviest loss to property occurred near Greenwood and north of Ashland.

HENRY JENSEN.
BABY OF MRS. W. BABCOCK.

Some of the injured:

Child of Herman Starman; Mrs. Herman Starman may die.
Henry Jensen, baby of Mrs. Babcock.

SOUTH OF ENGLAND IS VISITED BY STORMS

LONDON, March 23.—The south of England has been visited by a storm of hurricane force in the last two or three days. All seaside places on the south coast have suffered greatly. The wind blew at 80 miles an hour, throwing up tremendous tides which flooded the various properties.

AUSTRIA AND ITALY WARN MONTENEGRO

Crisis Arises Over Fire on Scutari; Ultimatum Is Given

LONDON, March 23.—Austria today delivered at Cettinje a thinly veiled ultimatum to Montenegro threatening that if the civil population of Scutari were not allowed to leave the city, the dual monarchy would take coercive measures to force compliance with its wishes.

Italy took similar action, but without expressing any threat, and Russia, the friend of Montenegro, advised the Montenegrin government to accede to Austria's demands.

Austria is sending a steamer to Scutari, evidently expecting that this, her second request for the release of the civilians, will not be refused, and has also made clear what she requires in connection with the other incidents of the dispute between the two countries.

Peace Envoys Busy.

In the meantime, the representatives of the powers at the Balkan capitals are busy submitting to the governments of the allies a note suggesting terms as a basis for peace. The note has not yet been presented to Turkey, as one of the ambassadors has failed to receive his instructions. The allies have been consulting with regard to the note, and the public and press of the Balkan states do not receive the suggestions with any favor.

News from Montenegrin headquarters indicates that King Nicholas believes the fall of Scutari is imminent. He is in command of the combined Servian and Montenegrin army, numbering 52,000. From the same source it is reported that the city has already been partly destroyed, all the large buildings having been damaged. Famine prevails and it is reported that many Austrians and Italians have been killed.

Note Is Presented.

CETTINJE, March 23.—It is semi-officially announced that Austria presented an ultimatum to Montenegro

CHARGES ARE MADE AGAINST PATROLMAN

Schisler Suspended Pending Investigation; Three Other Vacancies in Department

Patrolman J. M. Schisler was suspended yesterday following a conference between Commissioner Himebaugh and Chief Burno, pending an investigation of rumors that have been going the rounds as to his alleged misconduct as an officer. Just what these rumors are is not given out at this time, but it is understood that he is accused of visiting women while on duty.

Irrespective of what action may be taken finally in the case of Schisler, there are now three vacancies in the police department due to the resignations of Dycus, Ten Eyck and Frost. Examinations by the civil service commission for patrolmen were held earlier in the month, and it is probable that a list of those who passed and are eligible for appointment will be ready today. Appointments to fill the three vacancies may be made Wednesday morning. Chief Burno, who has been seriously ill with rheumatism and out of the city for the last two months, said last night that the character of the men to be appointed will be carefully investigated, and that no one against whom there was any criticism will be named.

M'KESSON TOUCHES ON VITAL ISSUES

Makes Good Impression at Socialist Meeting; Other Candidates Speak

"The Jackson franchise is the most important and vital issue that Colorado Springs will have to face during the next few years. It should be the object of the administration to secure the privileges possible at the earliest date. Already special interests are working to secure added privileges which will seriously embarrass the city when the franchise expires. We must have men who are alive to the danger that confronts the people in this respect."

With these remarks, City Attorney C. L. McKesson, candidate for mayor, at a meeting of Socialists at Carpenters hall last night, brought the issues of the coming election to a focus that no other candidate who spoke succeeded in doing.

"The real issue in which the people are interested is in the amount of taxes they pay," Mr. McKesson said. "If the people secure in their own hands the power plants, I am certain that we could materially reduce the expense of power, lights and street railway transportation. We would be in a position to offer cheap power to factories, and with the sale of lights and power, I believe, could soon be in a position where the taxes would be lowered to a great extent."

Referring to the reason why the bond refunding issue had not been brought up during the last four years to any great extent, Mr. McKesson stated: "Some men are firm and others obstinate. I was able to get this matter focused, after repeated failures before the council and the mayor, only when Mr. Avery was out of the city."

City Saves Money.

In connection with a question from the floor referring to the increase in salaries, one of which had been his own, the city attorney said that before his term $5,000 had been paid for special legal advice, but that with his salary covering the entire duties of city attorney, Colorado Springs has been saved much money.

Cries of "Where is Avery? Too bad he has the grip," and "Where is Cornforth? He's too busy to talk to us," were sent up often from the crowd of

HYDE JUROR DIES FROM AN ASSAULT

KANSAS CITY, March 23.—C. C. Spangler, a juryman in the third trial of Dr. B. Clarke Hyde, who was found in a street here this morning after the close of the trial, apparently suffering from an assault, died today at a hospital, where he was taken after being picked up. The jury of which Spangler was a member failed to agree as to the guilt or innocence of Dr. Hyde, who was charged with the murder of Col. Thomas H. Swope.

Spangler never sufficiently regained his senses, it was said at the hospital, to tell what caused his injury.

"EXTRA" MAY BE A LONG SESSION

LEADERS DISAGREE ON THE PROGRAM

Other Questions Besides the Tariff Will Doubtless Be Considered

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Democrats expressed the view tonight that the extra session of congress would be a prolonged affair. This was on the assumption that President Wilson would recommend to congress consideration of the currency question, as well as perhaps other matters of pressing importance insofar as their discussion would not interfere with the right of way of tariff revision. The president has indicated within the past day or two that he will urge other needed legislation when the tariff is out of the way.

Consideration of currency and other questions might carry the session well into the autumn.

Democratic Leader Underwood is known to believe that the tariff will be disposed of in the house by May 1, and by both houses by July 1. Speaker Clark tonight said that if only the tariff were taken up, congress could adjourn about the middle of August, while other leaders predicted that tariff revision would be ready for the presidential approval by August 1.

Leaders Differ on Program.

"If the president should send in a message recommending action on other important matters than the tariff," said Speaker Clark, "I have no sort of doubt that congress would take up these matters. A good many members of the house want to go right into general legislation. A good many other members believe that the extra session should be confined to the tariff. In the three special sessions called to revise the tariff in which I have served, the work was confined largely to the tariff, barring such routine matters as naturally come up."

The big problem with which the house ways and means committee majority now is wrestling is the income

ANOTHER WEEK STORMS, PREDICTS WEATHER MAN

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Abnormal storm activity and moderate fluctuations in temperature will prevail the country over during the coming week, according to the weather bureau's forecast.

"A storm center Sunday over the Rocky mountain region," the bureau's weekly bulletin says, "will move rapidly northeast, accompanied by shifting gales. It will be preceded by rains and much warmer weather at the beginning of the week in the eastern and southern states, and be attended by snow in the northwestern states and along the northern border. It will be followed by decidedly colder temperature Monday and Tuesday over the middle west and the southwest, and Tuesday and Wednesday generally east of the Mississippi river.

"Another disturbance of widespread influence will develop in the far west about Wednesday or Thursday, move eastward, attended by rain in southern and probably snow and rain in northern districts, and throughout the great central valleys Thursday and Friday and the eastern states Friday or Saturday."

WANTED, MEN FOR DIPLOMATIC JOBS

WILSON HAS HARD TIME FILLING POSTS

[illegible] McCombs Can't Accept Ambassadorship to Britain, Other Refusals

WASHINGTON, March 23.—President Wilson tonight reluctantly assented to the expressed determination of Chairman McCombs of the national Democratic committee to decline the proffered French ambassadorship. In a statement expressing his high regard for Mr. McCombs the president declared that the diplomatic service of the United States is necessarily hampered by the fact that only men who have time and means to leave their business found themselves able to serve the government abroad. The president's statement follows:

"I am very sorry, indeed, that Mr. McCombs cannot accept the appointment to France. I was particularly anxious that he should. My admiration for his abilities, my knowledge of his singular capacity for grasping complex situations, my confidence in his tact and resourcefulness, as well as my affection for him and the intimate relations that of course exist between us, combine to make that disappointment very great indeed. But I, of course, appreciate the force of the reasons he gives. He would have accepted at unreasonable sacrifice and I could not further press the offer upon him.

"It is a great pity that the country has to ask such sacrifices of those who are invited to serve it abroad, a service which every year becomes more exacting and more important. The sacrifice of time, of means and of opportunity at home, is very serious for any but men of large means and leisure, and the diplomatic service is unnecessarily hampered."

Bryan Back on Job Soon.

Secretary of State Bryan is due back in Washington from his western trip Wednesday. The president is expected to be ready to take up with him the appointment of men to at least five diplomatic posts which Washington observers regard as of the most pressing importance. Ambassadors to England, Mexico, Japan, Russia, and a minister to China, probably will be named within a short time.

The London and the Mexican embassies have been looked upon as those which should be filled first, because of the Panama free tolls question with Great Britain and the troubled conditions of Mexico. The announced policy of the administration toward China and its intention to keep close watch on the "open door" in China, have brought the question of appointment of an ambassador to Tokio and a minister to Pekin to the fore. The unsettled Russian passport question has made the selection of a representative to the czar's court much harder than it might ordinarily have proved to be. For none of these posts, except that of Mexico, apparently has the administration been able to decide upon a man and have its invitation accepted. Many names have been mentioned in connection with several of them, and in two instances, England and China, definite offers were made, but declinations have followed closely after.

It is known here that George W. Guthrie, former mayor of Pittsburg, meets with President Wilson's approval for the Mexican ambassadorship, but in the general discussion that will follow Mr. Bryan's return to Washington, there may be a shift that would result in the offer of another post.

Dr. Charles W. Eliot, offered the ambassadorship at London, has decided not to accept, according to information here, although his answer probably will not be made public for the present. Officials here refuse to discuss names under consideration for Great Britain.

LARGE CROWDS AT EASTER SERVICES

Mile-a-Minute Wind Does Not Deter Church Goers, but Finery Is Left Behind

There was no Easter-day prancing parade in Colorado Springs yesterday. Hundreds of new bonnets and new gowns were left tucked away in bandboxes by feminine owners for a better opportunity to christen them.

For yesterday there were two attempted snowstorms between daylight and dark, and a gale that at times reached a velocity of [illegible] miles an hour to make Easter Sunday anything but an auspicious time to display the newest wrinkles in feminine finery. Quite a few of the braver spirits were decked out in all their spring trimmings, but they were in the minority.

The unsettled condition of the weather caused a postponement of the opening orchestra concert at Stratton park, and this will be given next Sunday if the weather permits.

The wind did considerable damage all over the city, awnings being blown down, trees broken off and dust and sand being driven into every nook and corner. However, the weather did not lessen the crowds that attended Easter services at the churches, and quite a number of the houses of worship were unable to accommodate all who wanted to attend.

Quintet Arrested in Frisco Part of Band of Burglars?

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23.—Three women and two men, under arrest here in connection with numerous recent burglaries, are members of a gang that has been operating throughout the country, say the police, who believe that a part of an immense loot recovered was brought here by members of the gang from Chicago and other cities.

The prisoners give the names of Patrick F. Shea, Mrs. Maud Shea, said to be Shea's wife, Bert Shepard, alias Sterling, Miss Beatrice Bailey, and Miss Jessie Clifton. According to the police, Shea and the woman he calls his wife came here recently from Chicago. A former husband of Mrs. Shea named Tait, they said today, is now serving a term in a Pennsylvania prison.

The loot was taken from the Sheas' rooms in a fashionable apartment house.

Jessie Clifton, aged 17, the youngest of the five, said today she was ignorant of any wrongdoing on the part of her companions. She said she recently complete a course as an art student at a San Jose university and had come to San Francisco to study.

MAKE LAST PLEA FOR ALLEN TODAY

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Preparations were made tonight by attorneys for Claude Swenson Allen for a last appeal tomorrow to justices of the supreme court for a review of the death sentence imposed upon Allen for his part in the Hillsville, Va., court house murders. Already Justice White and Justice Hughes have independenly refused to grant the writ, which would bring the review and stay the execution of young Allen.

The attorneys today were considering laying the matter before justices at the conference tomorrow which precedes the open session of the court at noon. In this way it was believed they could determine with the least inconvenience whether any justice would be willing to grant the writ. The attorneys, however, declined to say that they had adopted this course.

RIGID QUARANTINE PUT ON DATE PALM INSECT

WASHINGTON, March 23.—On account of injurious date palm scale insects discovered in certain counties in California, Texas and Arizona, a quarantine has been declared, and no interstate shipments will be allowed from the quarantined area, unless the date palms or offshoots have been found by the department of agriculture officials to be free from infection. This order, issued by the federal horticultural board, becomes effective tomorrow.

SOLDIERS EXECUTE MADERO ADHERENTS

Cananea Is Threatened Unless Commander Surrenders to State Troops

CANANEA, Sonora, Mexico, March 23.—After failing to force a surrender from General Ojeda at Naco, on the Arizona border, state troops under General Obregon tonight again threaten Cananea. The groups under Obregon and Colonal Saral returned to Del Rio, between Cananea and Naco, and sent another demand for surrender to Colonel Moreno here. The commands of Colonels Bracamonte and Calles are reported to remain surrounding the border town.

Whether the state troops intend to attack Cananea and Naco simultaneously is not announced. The surrender of both towns has been formally demanded. Ojeda at Naco has shown by artillery fusiliades that he is unwilling, and Colonel Moreno in command here also appears adverse to the request.

The message received today by Colonel Moreno from the state troop chief stated that an attack would be made within 18 hours after noon today. Obregon also notified the United States consular agent here. Obregon suggested that all noncombatants be removed to places of safety, especially residents of the tableland where the 350 federal troops are entrenched. The state troops, for some days located nearby at Puebla Nueva, without being contested by the Huerta soldiers, have thrown up fortifications with their cannon pointed at the federal fortifications. If Obregon attacks from the east, the government troops will findp themselves between two fires.

Cavalry Skirts Town.

Late today the insurgent forces moved their trains to within four miles to Cananea, while cavalry moved to skirt the town. A few remaining American women and children have been afforded places of safety. The Mexican White Cross society members here are prepared for the expected battle tomorrow.

Cananea is located 20 miles below the border on a branch line of the Southern Pacific running northeast to Naco and northwest to Nogales, Ariz. It is the home of the Cananea Consolidated Copper company, contains a smelter and dependent plants and mining properties, employing nearly 2,000 men, many of whom are Americans.

Execute Madero Adherents.

EL PASO, Tex., March 23.—Three more adherents of the late President Madero were executed recently at Jiminez, say direct mail advices received here today. All were prominent political followers of the former president—Juan Rosales, ex-state senator; Jose Mena, former municipal officeholder at Parral, and Juan Baca, capitalist. Each was arrested on political charges at his home in Parral and removed to Jiminez, where the executions were made by military authorities. Ex-rebel troops under Jose Inez Salazar today occupied the Casas Grandes district. Federal forces will be withdrawn. Salazar will become military governor, with headquarters at Casas Grandes, center of the American lumbering and Mormon colonial district southwest of Juarez.

The arrangements came through a telegraphic conference between Salazar and General Huerta. The rebel general some days ago in a written proclamation denounced Huerta, insisting on the presidential claims of Emilio Vasquez Gomez. It is not made clear what the present position of Vasquez Gomez and his party will be.

Southern Sonora Quiet.

NOGALES, Ariz., March 23.—All is quiet in southern Sonora, the state of Sinaloa and the territory of Tepic, asserts a message received here today from Admiral W. H. H. Southerland, commanding the Pacific fleet, by wireless from the cruiser Colorado, now lying at Guaymas. the admiral assured Consul T. D. Bowman here that federal troops recently arriving at Mazatlan are on the way to Guaymas in sufficient numbers to dominate the situation.

The chamber of commerce at Guaymas was reported to have refused a loan to the insurgent Sonora state officials. State troops remain in control as far south as Ortiz on the Sonora railway a few miles north of the gulf port.

The postoffice here is flooded with mail, which, since March 1, Washington has not permitted to be delivered to the Sonora state authorities. The postal department, however, has ordered mail delivered to the Huerta de facto government, which is impossible here as the insurgent state troops control all territory below this port.

Seven hundred and fifty millions of pesos is represented here today by rich Sonora residents. Some of the refugees assert that Sonora soon will be reclaimed by the Huerta national government. Many will sojourn in California. Twenty-eight members of one family chartered a private car to take them to Los Angeles.

Max Muller, German consular agent and banker of Hermosillo, was among the arrivals. Before crossing to the Arizona side his friends paid 20,000 pesos to the state authorities. Muller had been arrested at the state capital and funds were removed from the Banco de Sonora of which he was vice president and general manager. The German previously had refused to make a loan to the state government, which alleged that he had shown political partisanship.

Mines May Close.

CANANEA, Sonora, March 23.—Unless fuel oil is secured several of the low-grade mines here will be forced to close by tomorrow. This will throw out of employment nearly 1,500 men. Already a part of the Cananea Consolidated Copper company's plant has been shut down.

Saltillo Attacked.

LAREDO, Tex., March 23. While it is known that Saltillo, Mexico, was attacked by adherents of Governor Carranza of Coahuila, last night in an effort to retake that city from the Huerta forces, telegraphic communication between Nuevo Laredo and Saltillo are secured and details are lacking here. Unconfirmed reports that the attack was unsuccessful, however, are current here.

Only one telegraph wire between Nuevo Laredo and Lampazos is open south of Laredo. Rebels have demanded the surrender of Lampazos, according to information reaching here.

AUSTRIA AND ITALY

today, demanding a suspension of the military operations around Scutari until the entire civil population has left the town. In event of refusal, Austria will resort to arms against Montenegro.

In a previous note, which is couched in threatening terms, Austria also demanded that all Catholics and Mohammedans in Jakova and the surrounding district who have been converted since the Montenegrin occupation must be restored to their former faith.

With a view to proving that the conversions in question were not attended by any compulsion, Montenegro replied that she proposed to appoint a commission on which, beside the Montenegrin members, there should also be one representative of Austria, and another of Italy or some other great power. Montenegro at the same time stated that she could not allow the sovereign right of Austria to be exercised in territory occupied by Montenegro.

Refuses to Accept Answer.

Austria refused to accept the answer to this note, on the ground that its wording was not "seemly." In government circles here the conviction is expressed that Austria refused it not on account of the form of the reply, but on account of its contents.

The official journal publishes a communication in which it is stated that the Catholics and Mohammedans of Ipek and Jakova expressed the wish to join the orthodox church, but were dissuaded by the Montenegrins, who advised them to exercise patience. The movement spread, however, as the people were unable to understand why they should not return to the old faith, of which they had preserved the usages. When they repeated the demand, their wish was granted.

The priest, Palic, the communication explains, was arrested for inciting the Albanians against Montenegro. He was being taken to Ipek for trial when he attempted to escape and was shot.

Slight Skirmishes Occur.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 23.—Skirmishing and fighting on the outposts are reported daily along the Tchatalja lines. The engagements, although frequently desperate, have never been on a large scale. The general staff is determined for the present not to allow itself to be drawn too far beyond Tchatalja. The troops operating outside the lines are confined to one division of volunteers. The right wing of the Turkish advance, after scoring an initial advantage, seems to have failed utterly, and the Bulgarians have reoccupied Kentandjik, which the Turks took some days ago.

The Turks have abandoned attempts to take the offensive at Bulair, and are remaining within the lines. The commanders both at Bulair and Tchatalja have declined to adopt the suggestion of the committee of Union and Progress for a general advance.

The bombardment of Adrianople continued Friday without damage or losses.

Investigate Death of Priest.

VIENNA, March 23.—Austria is sending the vice consul at Priserend and the Catholic archbishop of Uskup to Jakova to investigate the killing of Palic. The Austrian government has made it known that the forcible conversion will have to be cancelled.

A steamer will leave Trieste at an early date with provisions and blankets for the needy among the civil population of Scutari.

SALONIKI, March 23.—King Constantine arrived here today and was acclaimed by the populace. The foreign warships fired a salute of 21 guns. The king showed great grief, and the meeting between him and Dowager Queen Olga in the death chamber was most affecting, both bursting into tears.

The body of the late King George will lay in state tomorrow and the residents of Saloniki will be allowed to pass before the coffin.

MOB AGAIN PREPARES FOR SUFFRAGETTES

Repetition of Onslaught of Week Averted Because Women Fail to Show Up

LONDON, March 23.—A great crowd of youths, armed with various kinds of missiles, tin whistles, mouth organs and bells, gathered in Hyde park today, prepared to repeat the rowdy scenes of last Sunday should the suffragettes attempt to hold their regular Sunday meeting. The women, however, wisely refrained. But the crowd out for trouble in any event, spent the afternoon in bustling men who declared themselves to be sympathizers with the suffrage movement. The police had been advised that the meeting would be held and a strong force patrolled the park and adjoining streets. The crowd finally became weary and dispersed. An officer, who has had long experience in handling mobs, said that it was a good thing the women did not appear, as the men were in angry moods because of the burning of the fine country residence of Lady Amy White, widow of Field Marshal Sir George C. White, the hero of Ladysmith.

Although Lady White's house fortunately was empty, this act of incendiarism has caused a more bitter feeling against the militant suffragettes than any previous crime.

Windsor Castle Guarded.

Windsor castle, where the court has gone into residence, is being closely guarded, and special precautions have been taken to prevent women from making any demonstration or committing any outrage. A special staff of detectives has been sent to Windsor, and the north terrace of the castle, which has always heretofore been open to the public, has been closed. Hampton Court palace also has been closed.

James Kier Hardie, the Socialist and Independent Labor member, who is one of the strongest supporters of the women's cause, had a peculiar experience at Manchester today. He addressed a suffrage meeting in the afternoon and was interrupted by men with cries of "traitor." In the evening, when he addressed a meeting in connection with the annual conference of the Labor party, suffragettes persisted in interrupting him, and several women had to be forcibly ejected.

The women have promised to make demonstrations at all the meetings in connection with the conference, declaring that the Laborites, who are supposed to be supporters of women's suffrage, are really traitors, as they will not force the government to give women the vote.

Laplace Nebular Discoveries Are Strongly Indorsed

CHICAGO, March 23.—Important details of recent discoveries concerning the nebular hypothesis of solar systems by Dr. V. D. Slipster of the Lowell observatory, Flagstaff, Ariz., were made known here tonight on the arrival of Prof. Percival Lowell on his way to New York. The nebular theory of Laplace, which in recent years has been somewhat discredited in certain astronomical quarters, received a strong corroboration, according to a statement issued from observations at Flagstaff, which show that numerous nebular bodies shine by reflected light.

Observers at Lowell observatory have established the fact that the nebulae consist of clouds of star dust enveloped in gas.

"This is the first step in the evolution of a solar system," Professor Lowell's statement reads. The statement follows:

"It has been discovered at the Lowell observatory by Dr. V. D. Slipster, through spectroscopic observations, that the nebulate in the Pleiades is illuminated by reflected light of the neighboring stars, and that this nebulate is in reality a cloud of finely divided matter such as the investigations of Sir Norman Lockyer, Sir George Darwin and Prof. Hume Seelinger led them to suppose might exist in space.

Reveal Interesting Sights.

"The proof of this consists in the fact that with the slit of the spectograph so placed as to include the star and the wisps of nebulae in its neighborhood, the resulting spectogram shows the spectrum of the star surrounded by a faint continuous spectrum where the nebulosity exists, crossed by the well-known dark bands of the absorption of hydrogen and other gases. This indicates that the nebulae consists of solid matter reflecting the light it receives from the star and surrounded by cool gases. Or, in other words, that we see here a cloud of meteoric matter enveloped in lighter particles of gases. This is the first step in the evolution of a solar system.

"The importance of this discovery, which is corroborated by other Flagstaff observations of nebulae and star clusters, will be seen when it is pointed out that it bears directly upon the nature of thousands of other nebulae, and suggests that many of them closely reproduce the hypothetical nebulae assumed by Laplace as the basis for his nebular hypothesis.

"Spectroscopists of numerous observatories are interested in the discovery and are working on collateral investigations."

TIGERS BUSY THIS WEEK IN WORKOUT PLAN

The Tiger training camp promises to be the most strenuous place in the City of Sunshine(?) this week, if Coach Rothgeb's plans materialize, and they generally materialize. His kittens will be sent through the tortures of the hardest baseball of the season, and by the end of the week the positions on the team will be decided.

Today and tomorrow, if the weather is good, the Tigers will clash with the Cutler team, which is working under the direction of W. W. Gail. These two games will be started at three bells, and should throw light on the strength of both teams.

Wednesday and Thursday, the Terrors will be opponents for the Black and Gold players, and Friday and Saturday things will start with two games with the Denver All-Stars. The Denver team is a classy one and the locals will have to travel in order to win. There are no injuries in the Tiger camp as yet, and all the players are in good physical condition.

Every woman will want to read the series of Haskin Letters beginning in this newspaper on Wednesday, March 26, because in them she will find collected and presented in an interesting fashion all of the facts about the great movement that is changing the relation of her sex to human society.

Every man ought to read them if for no other reason than that he cannot afford to remain in ignorance of what every woman knows.

COLD NIPS EASTER PARADE IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, March 23.—Fifth avenue's annual Easter parade was favored today with bright sunshine, but with a decided nip in the brisk wind. In the after-church hours the fashionable thoroughfare was thronged as seldom before, but the display of the season's styles was perhaps less effective than usual because of the frequent resort to furs and wraps. Extremes in designs were rare in the gowns worn, the striking note of the exhibit being the generally high color scheme. Bright hues were the rule in both clothing and head covering of the feminine element.

FRIEDMANN GETS FIRST REST SINCE IN THE U.S.

NEW YORK, March 23.—Dr. Friedrich Franz Friedmann spent today quietly in his apartments. It was his only day of rest since he began holding clinics here.

Dr. Friedmann made it known that while he is absent on his projected trip to Germany for a few weeks, patients treated by him in this city would be taken care of.

Dr. Henry C. Frauenthal, in charge of the hospital for deformities and joint diseases, announced tonight that it was too early to tell anything regarding the condition of the patients treated by Dr. Friedmann last week, but in the near future the hospital would make public the exact condition of each case.

Where Is the Economy?

Where is the economy in washing at home? Where do you save in money—in work—or in results?

Did you ever figure up the cost of the extra fire and water used for washing; the soap, starch, bluing, etc., required; the value of the time to you that it takes to do the work at home; the hard back-breaking labor that it costs you and the unsatisfactory results that you obtain?

Is there any economy in it when we can save you all this at a very nominal cost.

DEATH TOLL WILL RUN HIGH

over a single long-distance telephone wire, which worked at intervals.

Terre Haute Hit Hard.

Terre Haute, Ind., suffered severely. Scores of persons were injured, an unknown number overwhelmed in the ruins of houses blown down by the wind and many fires were started in different part of the city.

First reports from Nebraska were that the towns visited by the storm had been wiped out and that the wreckage was on fire. Trains loaded with rescuers, nurses and physicians were struggling toward the scene, being compelled to feel their way without running orders, owing to the paralysis of the telegraph service.

The loss of life and property in Iowa was less severe according to messages from the storm-swept district. Dust storms, rain, hail and tremendous electrical disturbances prevailed over Kansas and Nebraska the greater part of the day. Where railroad service was impossible, motor cars were pressed into service and surgeons and supplies were rushed to the wrecked towns at the best speed possible over the washed-out roads.

Railroad messages relayed from point to point, carried a story of 15 dead and many injured at Yutan, Neb.

Coming Anticipated.

Shortly after midnight the storm reached Chicago. Its coming was presaged by the practically total failure of telegraph lines in all directions. Reports of disaster in the southern and central parts of Illinois could not be confirmed because of the impossibility of getting into communication with the endangered cities.

Damage in Chicago was confined at the storm's first coming to broken windows, small buildings unroofed and trees blown down.

"The condition of the wire services indicates that the storm's area radiates from Omaha a great distance in every direction," said a Western Union wire chief. "Wires are down between Omaha and points north as far as St. Paul, as well as in every other direction."

Great alarm is felt here for Omaha because of a dispatch that the mayor of Omaha has asked for state troops to prevent looting. A great disaster is feared, but no authoritative information could be had from any source. At 2 a. m. (Monday) virtually every telegraph and telephone wire into the offices of the telegraph companies and press agencies had failed.

Train Caught in Storm.

DES MOINES, Ia., March 23.—Members of the crew of a Rock Island passenger train, which reached here at midnight, brought news of high winds throughout western Iowa. The train left Omaha at 4:15 and traveled through the storm from Atlantic, Ia., 30 miles east of Omaha, to Stuart, a distance of 40 miles. The worst damage in this belt was at Menlo, 60 miles west of here, where several houses were unroofed. Several farm houses were reported demolished. Telephone poles and trees were blown across the tracks in many places.

Rain and Hail Also.

KANSAS CITY, March 23.—A terrific wind storm that raged today over Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska, was made more violent tonight by the accompaniment of heavy rain and hail and much electrical disturbance. Details of the severity of the storm are meager here, as telegraph and telephone wires are all out to the west, north and south.

Blizzard in Colorado.

LONGMONT, March 23.—The roof of the main building of the Empson Packing company was demolished by the wind this morning, with a loss to building and machinery of $10,000. The building was in course of reconstruction, and the old roof, which was supported by braces, in its fall, carried down a portion of the new walls. Although the wind was of exceptional violence, no other damage is reported from this district.

MONTROSE, Colo., March 23.—A raging blizzard, with an inch of snow, the mercury near zero, and a wind of 60 miles an hour, were the features of Easter weather in Montrose this year. The churches were almost deserted, and very few persons were seen on the streets during the storm, which abated near evening.

DOMB IN NEW YORK DESTROYS BUILDING

NEW YORK, March 23.—The fiftieth bomb set off in this city since January 1 exploded in the lower East side today with greater force than any infernal machine placed by blackhand operators within memory of the police. The lower part of a five-story tenement building was badly wrecked and there was a panic when the scores of tenants in the upper stories, who had been thrown from their beds by the shock, found their exit blocked by a great hole torn in the second floor hallway.

Several persons were painfully injured. A baker, near whose apartment the bomb was placed, denied he had received threatening letters.

Want to Count Uncle Sam's Money? Is a 300-Year Job

When New Treasurer Assumes Duties as United States Treasurer Four-Month Count Begins

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The greatest count of money and securities in the history of the world will begin at the treasury department on April 1, when John Burke, former governor of North Dakota, takes the oath of office as treasurer of the United States, succeeding C. A. Thompson.

To safeguard the nation's wealth, Uncle Sam requires that the retiring treasurer's record of the transfer of funds be verified by a count of the notes, coin and securities in the treasury. Secretary McAdoo will appoint a committee to take charge of the vaults and each vault and safe will be sealed on April 1 in preparation for the count. Only enough money to keep the wheels of government revolving will be laid aside for daily use while the counting is in progress.

It generally requires from two to four months to make the count. A government mathematician has figured out that it would take one person 300 years to verify Mr. Thompson's records. Ordinarily, every note, bond and other security is counted. Unless a shortage or error is discovered, the gold and silver, stored in bags containing $1,000 each usually is weighed, a test bag being balanced against all others for verification. Armed guards stand over the counters and workmen to protect them from interference.

Losses Seldom Occur.

Losses seldom have been found in these counts. When the treasurer was changed some years ago, $600 was stolen during the official count. A laborer engaged to lift the heavy bags of coin, substituted leaden discs for silver dollars in several bags, necessitating a five months count of every dollar of the $115,000,000 in the big silver vaults. The laborer was convicted of the theft and the retiring treasurer relieved by congress of the responsibility for the loss.

When Carmi Thompson succeeded Lee McClung as treasurer, he received over $1,400,000,000. He must account for every cent of that amount, plus the millions he has since received, minus expenditures.

While the treasurer of the United States handles no money personally, he is the only bonded official in his office. His $150,000 bond covers every subordinate and for many years treasurers have urged congress to order the bonding of employes who actually handle the $6,000,000 which passes through the treasurer's offices annually.

HUNDREDS KILLED BY TERRIFIC STORM

been partly destroyed by a tornado tonight and the town was burning. Five persons were dead and many injured, the report said.

Another rumor reaching here through the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad offices, says that Ashland, Neb., had been destroyed by a tornado. Details were lacking. Yutan and Ashland are 20 miles apart and about 40 miles west of Omaha.

Later reports at the Union Pacific offices here said to have come from Valley, a town within 20 miles of Yutan, placed the death list at Yutan at 15, with 50 injured. It was said the destruction of the town was complete from the tornado and the fire that afterward swept it. Surgeons were sent in motor cars to the relief of the injured, from Wahoo.

cellars. Whole structures were blown away by the force of the wind. The maimed and injured were rushed to hospitals as fast as they were extricated.

Rain Prevents Holocaust.

Difficulty was experienced in obtaining doctors, and the firemen were unable to cope with the flames which swept the district.

The heavy downpour of rain is all that prevented scores of injured from being burned in the debris of their homes.

Two tornadoes were reported as forming near Greenwood, one going north and the other heading for the east. The one which went north did the most damage, according to early reports.

At Ralston much property was destroyed, and the railroad lines were blocked with debris, necessitating the holding of several trains.

Wire service in the eastern portion of the state was demoralized, and only comparatively meager reports of the storm were received over telephone wires.

Train service was at a standstill for some time, and most of the dispatching was done over short telephone lines. The wires of both telegraph companies were also down, as were press wires.

SOCIETY

Day Nursery Children Enjoyed Easter Day

Miss Sarah Gwillim, official mother of the 28 children at the Day nursery, was at least as busy as anyone else in town in preparing her brood for the festivity, and they enjoyed the day to the fullest extent.

Bathing three or four children and dressing them in clean and mended clothes, keeps most people busy, but Miss Gwillim and her assistants had to superintend 28 baths and 28 wardrobes, to say nothing of all the other little odd tasks. For instance, she mentioned manicuring, and the vision of 280 fingers and 280 toes that needed attention was a staggering one. But the children are taught to help themselves, and Easter day saw them all radiant and shining, and they found, as did all the other children in town, the wonderful eggs the Easter rabbit laid at their plates at breakfast. They went to Sunday school, too, and then came home to the good dinner that they ate at the white little tables, and they spent the rest of the day as their sisters and brothers all over Colorado Springs did.

Their Easter gayety took place on Friday afternoon, when one of the board of directors, Miss Avis Jones, entertained them at her home on North Cascade avenue. None of the grown-ups from the nursery were invited, so the reporter who wished to hear about it asked if some of the children would tell about the fun of the afternoon, and one, Donald, was glad to do so. And here is his account of his adventure into Society.

"This lady—she is one of the ladies who knows us children—took us to her house in an automobile—yes, ma'am, all 15 of us. So we got up to her house, and we went upstairs and left our hats on the bed, and then we come downstairs and she give us each a sack, and we was to hunt Easter eggs, and to get the most got us a prize, and Charley got it. And then we played 'Donkey.' There was a donkey on the curtain and some tails, and we was to be blindfolded and try to pin them on in the right place, and Albert and Edna got the prizes for that. Albert was nearest and Edna was farthest, and so she got the prize, too. And then we played 'Grunt.' Haven't you ever played that? Why, one of us stands in the middle and is blindfolded, and he has a stick and he points it at one of us, and tells us to make a noise like an animal, and he tries to know who it is. Some of us barked like dogs and some of us crew like roosters, and it was pretty hard some times. Then we played 'Drop the Handkercief.' I guess you have played that. And then we asked the lady if we couldn't play something else, and she said: 'No, let's straighten out the rug.' So we did, and then we went out to the dining room. And the table there was awful pretty, with a big, green nest with a chicken on it and Easter eggs all around the chicken, and there was Easter eggs and chickens all around the places. And then we ate. There was ice cream and ladies' fingers and cookies and bon-bons. The ice cream was good—it looked like a piece of white and chocolate cake with nuts in between. And then we went in to the fire to get warm." "To get warm?" someone asked. "Why, yes; you see, some of them ate so much ice cream they was cold."

The members of the board of the Day nursery are anxious that the receipts from the annual Charity ball shall be as large as possible. The sum paid for the maintenance of the children by the parents pays their actual expenses, so they are not recipients of charity, but it is not enough to prevent a deficit in the treasury, and the $700 or $750 usually realized from the ball is very welcome. The nursery is a favorite institution in Colorado Springs, and its friends may be relied upon to give their help again this year.

Easter Hats Are Small.

If the Easter hats are to intrude themselves in the story of the day, as of course they must, let it at least be recorded of them this year that they are most unselfish. There have been years when the lilies at the altar have had to be taken on faith by the man who was not able to dodge the overlapping flowers and feathers of the yard-wide hats in the pew in front. But if anyone took the trouble to notice yesterday, the hats, gay and conspicuous as they were by reason of their bright coloring, allowed the fullest view of the flowers and the speakers.

The time has gone by when even the dullest man hopes that any change for the better will be permanent. Everybody knows that fashion is largely a matter of reactions, and when hats have reached their largest they will go back to their smallest, and vice versa. So the wise man will enjoy his clear vision in church while he may and force himself to become reconciled when another change comes.

Mrs. Ballou's Recital Friday.

Mrs. Kingsley Ballou, of this city, who is spending the winter at the Warrington, 161 Madison avenue, New York, has issued invitations for a recital to be given in the Astor gallery of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel Friday afternoon by a gifted protege of hers, Miss Blanche Cobacker of Denver. The little 14-year-old pianist has been heard in recital here, and she is considered to have great talent. She was born in Chicago, and began the study of music in Des Moines, later going to Denver. She studied there with Senor Ramon Aequabella, and later with Dr. John H. Gower. She was advised to go east for further study by Frank LeFarge. Mrs. Ballou has arranged this appearance for her in order that she may make enough money to continue her studies and be able to make her own way in the future. The patronesses whom Mrs. Ballou has interested in the recital are Mrs. Frank Damrosch, Miss Florence Guernsey, Mrs. William Grant Brown, Mrs. Katharine Martin, Mrs. Simon Barrch, Mrs. James C. A Star in The Isle of Kal-to-Kee

as he appears "On and Off" the stage

LOU FINK

As "ANNIE GILHOOLEY"

The most popular person who ever appeared in any of the numerous entertainments which have been given by the Colorado Springs lodge of Elks is Lou Fink, the youngest member of the family of talented musicians. In minstrel shows, street fairs, carnivals and other productions of the order, he has taken prominent parts and always has worked hard for the success of the affairs.

In "The Isle of Kal-to-Kee," the musical comedy by J. Allard Jeancon, which is to be given its first presentation at The Burns theater Thursday and Friday evenings by the Elks, "Lou" has a new kind of part, one in which he is destined to achieve perhaps the biggest success of his career. In the role of "Annie Gilhooley, Queen of Kal-to-Kee, President of the Hired Girls Union, and Royal Potentate of the Amalgamated Knockers," he will essay the part of a buxom Irish girl, who is "the boss—and that's all there are to it!" He has the "fat" part in the play, with more than 3,000 words.

In the musical numbers his high tenor voice will be heard to advantage. In the unique "Knockers' Chorus," in "I'm the Boss," and in an interpolated number, "Pots and Pans," as well as the ensembles, he will have an opportunity to make new friends among Colorado Springs theatergoers.

M'KESSON TOUCHES

Socialists who packed the hall. Avery and Cornforth did not attend the meeting, although invitations were sent them. Mr. McKesson's talk proved interesting to the Socialists, and he was loudly applauded.

Dr. S. A. Garth came out favoring free speech on the streets of Colorado Springs for every sect.

O. P. Grimes confessed his partisanship in politics, and pointed out the defects in the Avery administration. He declared that revenues have increased materially through the liquor and auto licenses as well as through the water department, and that from a total revenue of more than $500,000 annually nothing more has been done for the money. Grimes stated that he favors the reduction of operating expenses and opposes the plan for municipal ownership of public utilities. He said that he believes the Jackson franchise should not be renewed.

C. E. Thomas Talks.

C. E. Thomas stated that he was not running after being persuaded by his friends, but that he wants the place. He said that the commission form in Colorado Springs has fallen short of expectations, but he believes that this was due to the men in charge of the administration. He denied the truth of rumors to the effect that he is a corporation candidate. He expressed himself in favor of the meter registration in the water water supply and opposed to the renewal of the Jackson franchise.

Several candidates for councilman were present, but E. L. Ralston was the only one who spoke in response to questions. He stated that under the partisan form of government all city treasurers but one before the charter form had defaulted with city funds. He said that he was one of the four who stood out against the Jackson franchise at the time it was granted, and that if there had been as many people interested against it as there were represented at the meeting last night the council would never have dared to pass it.

tax, including questions of graduation or straight tax, and collection. The Wilson act of 1893, the last Democratic tariff measure, made $4,000 as the minimum taxable income, which some of the revisionists argued tonight was really equal to $5,000 or $6,000 under present living cost conditions. Some house leaders, while preferring a straight tax at the outset and to have the system developed gradually, would not oppose a conservative form of graduation. Others favor a graduated tax increasing heavily on large incomes.

Work on Dummy Schedule.

The committee majority is working with a "dummy" percentage rate, and the final result will hinge on these calculations and on the report yet to be made on the probable revenue from the 14 dutiable schedules. The question of collection source whether from the employer instead of directly from the salaried man is being carefully studied out.

The maximum and minimum proposal of the bill, it was said tonight, probably will be radically changed, perhaps with reversing of the so-called "big stick" policy by making the conventional or regular tariff rates the maximum to meet discriminating conditions in any foreign country. The Cuban reciprocity treaty of December 11, 1902, allowing 20 per cent reduction on imports from Cuba from the regular tariff rates, probably will be maintained by a reiteration of the declaration that nothing in the new tariff shall be construed to abrogate the treaty. Some substantial changes in the Philippine tariff are likely.

By agreement among several leading nations, a detailed map of the world on a uniform scale of one inch to about 16 miles is being made.

It is a story whose sympathies are as wide as the world. The destinies of nations are interwoven with the lives of the two heroes—one a millionaire, a pioneer of the Cecil Rhodes type; the other a diplomat, with his finger on the pulse of the world. All those qualities of devouring interest which charmed a million men and women in "The Right of Way" and "The Weavers" are even more fully disclosed in this new work of the Master's hand.

FOURTH LIST SIMPLIFIED SPELLING IS ANNOUNCED

NEW YORK, March 23.—The simplified spelling board issued today its fourth list of words to appear in new-fashioned orthography. Approximately 1,000 words are shortened or changed in spelling.

"In considering these new spellings," the board said in announcing the new list, "do not be too much influenced by the odd appearance of the word. Any change must look odd at first. Consider, rather, whether the change will bring a real gain if the public should accept it."

Some of the changes are:

Dropping the silent "h" in such words as chaos and chamelion, dropping the final "k" in words like "hammock," changing heart and hearth to hart and harth, dropping the silent "e" in money, and similar words, substituting laf for laugh and cof for cough, omitting "g" in gnat, gnome or similar words, substituting nee for knee and nicknac for nicknack, changing pranced to pranst, and other words ending with "nced" to "nst."

The word touch is spelled tuch, serious is changed to serius, blow is spelled blo, below is changed to belo, forced to forst, phantom to fantom, handsome to handsum, boss to bos, glue to glu, and wretch to retch. Each of these instances typifies a rule and is followed by a long list of words to which it applies.

Andrew Carnegie, Theodore Roosevelt and a score of other noted men are included in the list of the board's members.

Greater Boston claims a population of 1,522,912.

CHIEF BURNO'S POSITION

WE CONFESS to some sympathy for Chief of Police Burno in his present predicament, for he has been incapacitated by illness and out of the city during the period when the events occurred which culminated in the exposures made last week. But we disagree almost in toto with the position assumed in his statement published yesterday.

He declares that he would welcome an investigation by a Grand Jury, but the entire tone of his statement is a contention against this course. He directs attention to the fact that there have been no murders and only a very slight burglary loss within the last year, as an evidence of police efficiency. This is convincing as far as it goes, but are we to understand that a policeman cannot be efficient in suppressing and preventing capital crime without at the same time being a moral reprobate?

He is right in saying that the entire department should not be condemned "on account of the alleged laxity of two or three officers" although in this case the laxity is not "alleged" but virtually proven by the resignation of all of the men under fire. It is for this very reason that a Grand Jury investigation is essential to determine who is guilty and who is innocent.

But Chief Burno reaches the height of absurdity in his suggestion that a segregated district be established, and also in his assertion that Ten Eyck, Frost and Gavin "are all men skilled in criminal work, and could receive a recommendation to that effect from me today." The suggestion as to a segregated district is rather vague. The Chief says:

"It is a question . . . whether or not your rooming houses and residence district is to be infested with floaters, such as we have in this city, who are here for a week or two and gone, or whether they shall be placed in a semi-segregated district, and in a half wide-open manner which is permitted by the District Attorney's office and other public officials in certain districts of this county."

What does he mean by a "semi-segregated district"? A district is either segregated or it isn't; moreover, there is really no such thing as a "half wide-open manner" of regulation.

But the essential point is that in Colorado Springs there is no need whatever for a segregated district, either of the "semi" or the real variety. In a small city such as ours every disreputable resort that springs up can be spotted by the police within a few days, provided they are efficient. And there is plenty of law under which these places can be put out of business immediately.

It is perfectly plain that the trouble here has not been that the police were ignorant of the existence or whereabouts of such resorts, or that they were unable to punish the offender the condition has been exactly the reverse, for at least some of the policemen frequented and protected the resorts.

As to Chief Burno's testimonial of confidence in the three disgraced officers, it is a plain case of friendship getting the better of commonsense. They may be, as he says, highly "skilled in criminal work"—indeed, they seem to have become so skilled that they came perilously close to getting into it themselves. But however efficient they may be as thief catchers, it is clear that they are woefully deficient in moral sense.

THE HIGH SCHOOL CONTRACT

THE two most important building enterprises of the year in Colorado Springs are the Stratton Home and the new High School. The contract for the Stratton Home has already been let to a Denver bidder, the School Board has just received bids from ten general contractors and five plumbing and heating contractors for the new High school building. As is usually the case when a job of such magnitude is concerned, several Denver bidders are after the contract.

It is hardly necessary to emphasize the importance of having this work done by a home contractor, if possible. If it goes to a Denver contractor it means the employment of considerable outside labor and the purchase of material elsewhere. A contractor naturally buys his material from the firms with which he accustomed to deal, and is usually so anxious to do this that he would rather pay the extra freight charges than patronize a dealer with whom he is not well acquainted.

The lumber and building material industry is an important one in Colorado Springs, for it employs a great many men and represents a large investment. All of the lumber yards have planing mills equipped to do high-class work and employing highly-paid skilled labor. To them it is no small matter when such a big contract as that of the Stratton Home or the High School goes to Denver, for it means the loss of the mill work as well the sale of building materials.

Of course the School Board can only act in this matter, as did the trustees of the Stratton estate, in the best interest of those whom they represent. They would not be justified in needlessly increasing the cost of building merely to give the contract to a local concern, especially since they are spending public funds. Nevertheless it is to be hoped that a local contractor may be successful.

THE ROBINSON DIVORCE BILL

THE defeat of Senator Robinson's divorce bill is a regrettable occurrence, not only because the measure would help to achieve an important reform, but because of the circumstances connected with it. It appears that Senator Robinson is being punished by Senator Billy Adams and his cohorts for his position in the Barela contest and other matters wherein Robinson has asserted his independence of boss domination. Incidentally, he is the victim of the resentment of Mark Skinner, now Clerk of the Senate, because he walloped that worthy at the polls last November.

Here is a typical instance of the defeat of needed legislation solely because of peanut politics. Seemingly nobody offered a valid objection to the bill, nobody attempted to argue against it; but because two or three influential leaders wanted to gratify a personal grudge against its author, they contrived to slaughter it. The spirit back of that sort of procedure is so contemptibly mean that it is pretty certain to get its reward sometime, even if it accomplishes its purpose now.

EGGS AND ALTITUDE

AT a recent meeting of the Pikes Peak Poultry Association it was agreed after some discussion that the altitude of this region is a stimulant, rather than a deterrent, to egg production. One member told of paying only $2.75 in February for feed for his flock of twenty-three hens, which in grateful recognition produced eggs worth $12.70.

The local poultry and egg industry is rapidly becoming important. We remember reading somewhere that the cost of egg production is about one-half the average local retail price (which would seem to be a better thing for the producer than for the consumer) and the development of the industry, as shown by the number of successful poultry ranches scattered hereabouts, indicates prosperity.

Official report shows that an astonishing sum of money is sent from Colorado to other states, chiefly Kansas and Nebraska, every year for poultry and eggs. But Colorado Springs producers seem able to take care of the home market, and the quality is usually the best. Perhaps some day Colorado Springs will achieve fame as a shipping center for the poultry industry.

MOTHERHOOD AND TEACHERS.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

It is an astonishing evidence of the psychological topsy-turveydom in this country that New York is much more excited over a sociological problem than over the practical affairs of life. Thus the question of whether the city shall spend $335,000,000 on subways and elevated roads, whether the state shall expend $50,000,000 more on canals and an equal sum on good roads, are matters which appear to be of primary importance.

As a fact they seem to be negligible compared with the issue as to whether a woman in the Brooklyn schools shall have a year's vacation on her perfectly frank explanation that she "desires to bring a child into the world." It is instructive to recall, as showing the development of sociology, that 30 years ago such a subject would never be discussed or even referred to in the newspapers, on the ground of its indelicacy. But we have reached the point where a woman may admit that she wants to have a child, is going to have one, and desires to make professional and financial arrangements to meet the situation. In this particular case the woman is a school teacher and has a husband who is drawing a salary of $8,000 a year as principal of a school.

No other subject is discussed so largely in the newspapers, and on no other subject are so many letters printed. It seems that the men of New York approve the application on the ground that the woman should have her vacation and is certain to be benefited thereby as a public instructor. On the other hand, women seem to think that the prospective mother should be relegated to private life, especially as her husband is earning a good salary and competent to support a wife and child.

That a mother should make a better teacher than an unmarried woman seems probable on general grounds, supposing that she has time to devote to those who are not her own children. But no one seems to have thought much about the child. Experience of late indicates that children need all of the training they can get a home and much more at school, at Sunday school and church. The crying evil of the age is that the home has lost so much of its significance, and that there is too great pressure brought to bear upon the financial resources of the family.

THE PROTECTIVE PETTICOAT.

From the New York Sun.

Mere men and a good many mere women too will find themselves in sympathy with the attitude of the mob which invaded the militants' meeting at Nottingham and broke it up. "Do you call yourselves men?" shrieked the women as the tide of invaders flowed upon them. "Do you call yourselves women?" not ineptly retorted the mob as it proceeded to make havoc.

The plain fact is that these militant ladies do not play the game fairly. They are endeavoring to solve the old conundrum of how you may have your cake and eat it too. The answer, of course, is that you can't, but the militants are not content with that time honored solution. After they have had all the fun they want and done as much damage as their native ingenuity suggests they seek refuge from [illegible] behind their petticoats. Having goaded people beyond the limits of endurance in asserting their complete emancipation from the domination of man, when taken at their word by the simple souls untutored in sophistries who form a mob they fall back on their sex and cry, "Yah! Coward to attack a woman!" Similarly, when it pleases them the policeman, as the representatives of those man made laws by which they refuse to be bound, is their natural enemy, his vile body a legitimate object for kicks and scratches; but when they wish to hold a meeting, secure from interruption or to escape from the indignation of an outraged populace it is to the policeman that they appeal as the stalwart representative of law and order. To paraphrase Kipling:

"It's 'Bobby this and Bobby that,' and kick and scratch the lout;
But it's 'Help of the defenseless' when the mob begins to shout."

In point of fact the cowardice is on the side of the militants. They have been hitting people who cannot hit back, simply because the aggressors are women. If, after bearing with their antics for a long time with a really exemplary patience, the less controlled element in the population is beginning to forget the traditional respect which is due to women, the militants have only themselves to thank for it; and if some of the manners and customs of an England that was miscalled "merrie" are revived and the mob is able, in spite of the police, to carry out its amiably expressed intention of ducking some of the militants, the victims will be regarded by the majority of people not as newfangled martyrs but as old-fashioned scolds.

What Funny Creatures Men Are!

By RUTH CAMERON.

A friend of mine who is the proud and fortunate mother of four grown-up sons, was telling me about her boys the other day.

"Boys are such funny creatures," she said, in the half serious, but more than half tender tone in which we speak of the oddities of those we love, "they don't notice things, and then, again, they do. Now I'm sure none of my boys would ever notice that I had had the windows in their rooms washed, and yet if I shouldn't have them washed just about once in so often, they'd know there was something wrong."

I enjoyed that characterization, and I pass it on to you because it is so typical of the masculine way of looking at things. And especially of the masculine attitude toward women's clothes.

Women sometimes affirm that men do not appreciate pretty clothes. I think that is a gross libel. The average man thoroughly enjoys a pretty effect in a hat or costume, but he doesn't understand details. My friend's boys knew there was something wrong with their room but they didn't know what it was. They got the general effect, you see, but not the details. And that is just the way men see women's clothes. They appreciate a good effect and dislike a bad one, but nine times out of ten they don't know what the trouble is when the windows aren't washed or the costume isn't pretty.

Of course men's judgments on clothes are apt to be amusing to the sophisticated mind of woman, but I really think their opinions are sometimes better than ours because expense is one of the details they do not appreciate, and hence they can judge of beauty and becomingness without being hampered by the thought of that. The most inartistic and unbecoming monstrosity is glorified in the eyes of a woman if she is told it cost $250 and was made by Paquin. Whereas, unless the bill is coming to him, no normal man cares a continental what a gown costs. He is quite likely to prefer some little rag that his wife made up with the help of a dollar-a-day seamstress, to the imported model that cost twice as much as she could afford.

I shall never forget the surprise of a certain matron who had had an old hat trimmed over, when her very fastidious husband said enthusiastically, "Now that's a stunning hat, why haven't you had something like that before?" She pointed out to him that it was the same hat she had worn last winter minus two $10 plumes and plus $3 worth of silk. He was surprised but still firm that it was the best looking hat she had ever had, and he was right. It became her better, and had more style in its inexpensive reincarnation. But being a woman she couldn't see it.

Men, as well as boys, are very funny creatures, but sometimes they do show quite a little intelligence, even about such surprising subjects as women's clothes.

BONDS

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

A bond is a quiet, handsome piece of paper which costs $1,000, and can earn as much in a year as a bright boy.

A bond consists of a preamble which no one can read because the type is set so closely, and a tail consisting of a large number of coupons. These coupons are dated. Whenever the date on a coupon arrives, the owner can take a sharp pair of scissors and chop $50 or $60 out of his bond. It is as easy as cutting a recipe out of a newspaper. Many a man who isn't talented enough to talk to a book agent sits [illegible] of bonds and a pair of sharp scissors and carves out a few thousand dollars while he is smoking half a cigarette.

Bonds are issued by companies or cities which need the money and the coupons represent interest. When a coupon becomes due and the company has no money with which to pay the interest, the man who owns the coupon gives a loud shriek and runs around in circles until confidence has been restored and the receivers have done their duty. Nothing is so vexatious as to clip a coupon which ought to be worth $60 and then find that it has gone dry like a cow and will not give down.

"As easy as cutting a recipe out of a newspaper."

Clipping coupons is not good exercise and one does not develop any skill or learning thereby. Yet it is a most popular pastime and should be encouraged. If a man will refrain from smoking and drinking and the wearing of speckled vests long enough to save $1,000 he can buy a seal brown bond and can clip coupons from it for 40 years—after which he can trade the mangled stump for a new, light green bond and teach his grandson how to clip.

Some people buy automobiles, fur coats, diamonds, and tickets to Europe. Others buy red bonds, blue bonds, pink bonds and heliotrope bonds, and when they get enough for a mess they stop working and begin to worry over the stability of business. A pile of bonds will take better care of a man than a daughter-in-law or a poor farm.

THE LAST OF THE LOG CABIN RACE

From the Boston Globe.

Hard as it may be for us to face the fact, we have had our last log-cabin president. That picturesque race, uniquely American, has passed into history. Some of its products were as commonplace as Buchanan and impossible as Johnson, but the heroism of Jackson and the glory of Lincoln have framed about them all forever an unfading aureole.

The log cabin itself is all but extinct type of architecture, and the social life it expressed survives only here and there in the southern mountains. With free schools and free books scattered over the land, and with the state university near at hand, a poor country boy like Lincoln, with a thirst for knowledge and a pair of long legs, could not miss getting his A. B. on a sheepskin and his letter on his sweater by running bases for the varsity nine.

Indeed, the country boy, however circumstanced, has disappeared for the time being from the presidential line. Our population becoming more and more urban, our Presidents for a generation now have been urban in their origin and training. There was not a farmer's lad among them.

The three principal candidates for president in the recent election were all urban. Probably no one of them could milk a cow, although it may not be safe to place a limit on Mr. Roosevelt's versatility.

THE HASKIN LETTER

FIGHTING FLIES AND MOSQUITOES

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

"Flies ought to be killed now," said Dr. L. O. Howard, chief of the United States bureau of entomology, last week, emphasizing the "now." "A fly crusade started in July can have little lasting effect. Every fly killed now is equivalent to killing millions of them in the middle of the summer. The fly crusades throughout the country last summer accomplished a great deal in the way of temporary relief. This year the work should begin earlier and last longer. The spring housecleaning should include a vigorous antifly crusade, which should extend to any places outside the house where flies are likely to breed. A mature fly of April may be the ancestor of over six billion flies by the first of September, according to a careful scientific calculation. The young flies killed in April have had few offspring, and that is the time when they should be annihilated. The killing of all the winter flies would do away with the great work required in the summer."

A number of towns already have commenced the work of destroying the winter flies. Cleveland expects to be almost a flyless city this summer, as a result of the vigorous work which has been in progress this past three months. The Normal school of the city acted as a committee to count flies collected by the boys. Money has been raised to pay for the winter flies collected, at the rate of 10 cents per hundred. Over 300,000 have been paid for at this rate and the crusade is still on. After next month the price will be lowered to 10 cents per thousand, although the boys are firm in their belief that this is unfair, as the number of old flies already collected will make it even more difficult to procure them, even as the warm weather approaches and the natural increase is to be expected.

New Species Discovered.

A number of different species of flies frequently are found around the house, although only one of these is the housefly proper. Scientifically this is known as the musca domestica. It is medium sized and grayish in color, with its mouth part spread out at the tip for sucking up liquids. The housefly cannot bite because its mouth is not formed that way, although most people believe that it does. The fly that does the biting is really the stable fly or stomoxys calcitrans, which resembles the housefly so closely that only an entomologist is likely to discover the difference. It is frequently found in the house, and differs from the housefly chiefly in having a mouth which can pierce the skin in a sharp, stinging little bite, which sometimes arouses a summer slumberer from a pleasant nap.

Another species of fly frequently found in the house is the cluster fly or pollenia rudis, which is especially numerous in the spring and fall. The cluster fly is larger than the average housefly. Its abdomen is smooth and dark colored and the fly has a sprinkling of yellow hairs. It is apt to be sluggish in its movement, especially in the fall, and therefore can be picked up readily. It is subject to a fungous disease which causes it to die upon window panes surrounded with a white efflorescence. Sometimes this fly becomes so numerous in a house as to become a pest, but such cases are not frequent.

Active Filth Distributor.

Another stable fly, almost exactly like the housefly in appearance, does not bite as does the stomoxys calcitrans. It breeds upon decaying vegetation and manure, and is an active agent in the distribution of filth and germs. Several varieties of greenish or bluish flies having a metallic luster also are to be found about the house. The most numerous is the blue-bottle fly, which also is called the blow-fly or meat-fly, because it breeds in decaying animal material. There are several smaller species of house flies, and a fruit-fly, which frequently is found to be attracted by the odors of over-ripe fruit. Each of these is capable of carrying thousands of disease germs, aside from the annoyance their own presence causes. All these different species together, however, are small in numbers in comparison with the common housefly. Out of collections of flies found in dining rooms in different parts of the country over 90 per cent of the whole number captured were the musca domestica, or common housefly.

The favorite breeding place of the musca domestica is the horse stable, although, failing that, garbage cans, slops or any collection of fermenting vegetable matter will suffice. It seems to take the eggs longer to mature in some localities than others. A scientist experimenting in Massachusetts reared a generation in 14 days. The duration of the egg state was 24 hours, the larval state from five to seven days, and the pupal state about the same period. An experiment made in Washington last year, in midsummer, indicated that the female lays at one time about 120 eggs which hatch in eight hours. The larval period with these eggs lasted less than five days and the pupal five days, making the total time for the development of a generation of young flies about 10 days.

Preventative Measures.

The greatest preventive measure for the development of the housefly is the avoidance of accumulations of stable refuse. In the cities where proper street cleaning conditions prevail, this may be comparatively easy, as special regulations can be made for livery stables. In the country the problem presents greater difficulties. Experiments have been made as to the possibility of treating refuse with air, slacked lime, and other preparations as a preventive of fly breeding, but so far the results have not been satisfactory.

In smaller towns, where the provisions for street cleaning are limited, the collection of stable refuse has been one of the features made prominent in the antifly crusades. Public-spirited citizens have contributed money to pay for this work, and in a number of instances it has been undertaken by school children. In New York state the boy scouts recently have taken up a certain amount of street cleaning with a view to fly extermination.

In some localities the fight for the annihilation of the mosquito has been taken up even more strenuously than that of the fly. In Atlantic City, this spring, the townspeople and the city officials are uniting in their efforts with such vigilance as to encourage the devout hope that the mosquito this year will be much less prevalent at that well-known resort than formerly. The "Jersey skeeter" long has been recognized as the champion of his race, and yet the measures taken to overcome him are expected to be quite as effective within the next few years as those which banished the more malignant yellow fever mosquito from Panama and Cuba. At a meeting called for this purpose in Atlantic City last month, a number of experts gave advice as to the best methods of procedure to be undertaken for immediate results in that locality. Appropriations have been made for a liberal use of germicide and oils which will be used wherever any stagnant waters are found. An improved system of drainage is being outlined in the surrounding territory and a rigid inspection will be maintained throughout the season in quest of any collection of water in vessels or pools which might afford a breeding place. It is quite possible for a beer bottle thrown in a corner by a careless tourist to accumulate enough water in a summer shower to breed thousands of mosquitoes within a few days. A veritable plague of mosquitoes has been traced to a case of empty beer bottles allowed to remain uncovered in a back yard in the summer.

Drainage Proves Effective.

The drainage of marsh land, both in New Jersey and California, has been found most effective in reducing the scourge and improving the sanitary conditions of the states. In slightly marshy grounds, the footprints of horses and cattle may breed mosquitoes, and the men in charge of the public roads are spraying all such depressions with a germicide or low grade of kerosene. The use of kerosene has been found to be one of the

SCHYLER TELLS OF DOMESTIC TROUBLES

Purcell Will File Murder Charge Today Against Allen's Slayer

District Attorney Purcell will go to Burlington, Kit Carson county, today, to file an information in the district court there charging Frank Schyler with the murder, Friday night, of N. J. Allen, Jr., in a hotel in Flagler. The scene of the tragedy is 110 miles east of Colorado Springs.

Schyler surrendered to the sheriff immediately after the shooting, and in the following statement to the Burlington officers told of events that led up to the killing:

"I proved up on my quarter section of land last Monday, which is about 10 miles southwest of Vona. While we endured many hardships, my wife and I lived there happily together for three years or more, until November 28, last. Needing clothes and money, my wife went to Flagler to work for N. J. Allen, who conducted a hotel at that place. I began to hear rumors about six weeks ago that all was not right at this hotel, and was told that if I respected my wife I had better take her away from there. Last Sunday I visited my wife and tried to persuade her to return to the ranch, telling her that our children—two boys of 10 and 12—needed her attention; that I had my spring work to do, and that she was needed at home more than she was at Flagler. She ridiculed and laughed at me, and asked me what I would do if she refused to come home. I told her there was no law to force her to come home that I knew of, but that it was her duty.

"While in Flagler I heard through friends that it was rumored that Allen was very friendly with my wife. It worried me so I could not work or sleep at home. Friday night I made up my mind to find out how true these rumors were. I went to Flagler and hid myself in my wife's room, behind the dressing case. About 8:30 my wife entered the room. In a few minutes someone scratched on the door and she opened it and Allen entered the room. He took my wife in his arms. When it had gone this far I couldn't stand it any longer and stepped out from behind the dressing case.

"Allen started to run and I called to him to halt, but he paid no attention, but kept on going. I said: 'If you are to act like a dog, I will shoot you like a dog,' or words to that effect. Then I pulled my revolver and shot him."

Schyler is the first man ever locked in the Kit Carson county jail on a charge of murder. He is about 35 years old and his wife is 22. Allen was 42 years old.

DR. J. H. SPENCER TO ADDRESS BROTHERHOOD

The Rev. J. H. Spencer, pastor of the First Baptist church, is to address a meeting of the brotherhood of the First Congregational church at the church at 6:30 o'clock Thursday night, speaking on "The Cost of Good Government." All who wish to attend the meeting are requested to send in their names to E. B. Beeson, 117 East Pikes Peak avenue.

At the meeting Thursday evening the report of the findings of the executive committee of the Federated brotherhoods in regard to candidates also will be presented. The executive committee is made up of the presidents of the brotherhoods of the various churches, and each officer is to report back the findings of the committee to his own organization at his own convenience.

DOCKERY KNOWN HERE

Alexander M. Dockery, former governor of Missouri, who has been appointed third assistant postmaster general, is well known in Colorado Springs, and spent several days here last May during the Democratic state convention. At that time Mr. Dockery was working hard for Champ Clark's nomination, and made an address before the convention for his candidate. His appointment is taken by politicians to mean that there is no ill feeling between the president and the "Houn' Dog" candidate.

Springs Women Will Attend D.A.R. Meeting

Mrs. H. H. Seldomridge, wife of Congressman Seldomridge, and Mrs. B. F. Shephard, now of Los Angeles, with Mrs. C. A. Eldredge of Colorado Springs as alternate, are to attend the twenty-second continental congress of the national society of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Washington, D. C., April 14-19, as delegates from Zebulon Pike chapter, D. A. R., the local branch of the organization. Mrs. F. C. Rogers of Pueblo, state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, also will attend the convention.

Mrs. Seldomridge is now in Washington. Mrs. Shephard still holds her membership in the local chapter. At one session of the convention Mrs. Seldomridge is to sing "Colorado," a song composed by Mrs. Maude McFerran Price of this city.

Deaths and Funerals

Miss Louie Green, 14 years old, daughter of W. B. Green, died last night at 7:30 o'clock, at the residence, 915 East Boulder street. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

The body of Alfred Blalock, the 18-year-old boy who died at a local hospital recently as a result of injuries sustained in a fall from a train near Fountain, was taken for burial yesterday to his home, Blalock, Ga., a small town between Cornelia and Clayton, Ga. The inquest into the death is being held over for further evidence.

Report Submitted on Proposed Electrification of Part of Rio Grande

Engineers for the General Electric company who have been making a study of the subject of the electrification of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad over two of its highest passes, Soldier Summit, Utah, and Tennessee Pass, in this state have reported that both projects are feasible and that the cost of installation, including the electric locomotives, will total $8,500,000. The report is in the hands of President Bush and will be submitted to the board of directors at the meeting April 8.

The estimated cost of the work of employing electricity on the Salt Lake division, which includes Soldier Summit and which extends west from Helper a distance of 131 miles, is $3,000,000. Power would be furnished by the Utah Light and Power company with an auxiliary steam generating plant to be built by the railroad company. This division would be the first section of the road to be equipped with electric traction, and it is said by the engineers that the work can be prosecuted incidentally with the construction of the new low-grade detour line around Soldier Summit, so that when that improvement is completed steam power can be dispensed with.

As regards the Tennessee Pass electric line, which would extend from Minturn to Salida, 86 miles, the cost is figured at $5,500,000, including an auxiliary steam plant to supplement the power which would be furnished by the Central Colorado Power company, whose reorganization next month would enable it to contract for the supply of current from the Salida station. This estimate also includes locomotives.

The directors of the company probably will require a month to consider the report on the electrification of the Salt Lake division, and it will not be until May that the contracts can be let. The work of low-grading the line and double-tracking the entire route between Helper and Salt Lake will be completed by August 1.

RECORD CROWDS ATTEND THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN

More than 1,100 people attended each Easter service yesterday morning and evening, at the First Presbyterian church, the crowd being the largest in the church's history. Sixty-nine new members were enrolled in the morning. In the evening a chorus choir of 32 voices sang several of the famous choruses from "The Messiah" and "St. Paul." One of the Sunday school classes sent out several dozen Easter lilies to sick people at the hospitals.

The Rev. Samuel Garvin gave a strong sermon on the topic, "Who Will Roll Us Away the Stone?"

"AFTER DEATH---WHAT?"

The Rev. Thomas S. Robjent preached at All Souls Unitarian church yesterday morning the first of a course of sermons on "After Death What?" He said in part:

There is no trace of a people who had any history that does not furnish evidence of expecting life beyond this life. There is no people ever in the time when they were afraid of the gods, who were so afraid of the gods but that they were more afraid of extinction. Better the gods with their terrors than to be snuffed out like a candle never to be relighted. We do well to listen to these voices of the past. When God speaks in the only language you and I can understand, the language of the human heart and brain, we would do well to attend, unless we want a dumb world. The world is so ordained that there never yet has been discovered a persistent desire, native to human life, permanently expressed in human life, but that it was the registry of a supply that was bound to appear.

God never flung a flag out that was not placed over a cairn which was a reservoir of supply. What shall we say, then, when we find the race all fronting one way, not content to look upon the closed eyes of the dead, but turning, "gazing into the heavens" for those buried in the earth?

The belief in immortality is grounded first in the consciousness of life. It is life, and not death, of which we are conscious. If we live at all well, we live in that part of us that we believe is untouched by death. This consciousness of life is prophetic. The light tapped upon a pigment of the skin until it made an eye. All the music of the world lies outdoors. So it is we dream of the immortal instinct.

It is grounded, too, in the eternal fact of God. The soul that is at one with God may say with the master: "I am not alone, for the Father is with me."

Dying with arms extended, as though he would embrace the world, he said: "Into thy hands I commend my spirit."

It is grounded, too, in the devout sacrament which we call our daily life. In the knowledge of love, sacrifice and character. The signs of a larger life in a noble life and immortality stamped on service for others.

Next Sunday morning and the four following Sundays Mr. Robjent preaches on the different theories held by the world's thinkers concerning immortality, commencing with the oriental theory of reincarnation. He will cite the arguments for and against it.

POLICE NOTES

Fanny Wells Graham, colored, was arrested on East Huerfano street early yesterday morning, on a charge of enticing a white man into an alley in Colorado City and robbing him of about $100. Another colored woman, named Tracy, is said to be implicated in the alleged holdup.

Robert Johnson, 11 years old, ran away from his home in Denver last Saturday, telling his brother that he intended to come to Colorado Springs to make some money. He was taken in charge by the police as he alighted from a Denver and Rio Grande train and sent home yesterday afternoon.

William Cashman was arrested at 10:40 o'clock last night by Officer Toops for drunkenness and resisting an officer. He was in an alley with another man when the arrest was made, and the two engaged in a scuffle with the officer. The other man escaped.

ROMAINE DENIES GUILT; OFFICER ARRIVES FOR HIM

Dr. H. L. Romaine, who is held at the city jail for the authorities at Indianapolis on a charge of grand larceny, declared last night that the attempt to take him back to the eastern city is a "frameup," and that the manner in which he secured a loan of $100 from William P. Hoover of that city was legitimate.

"I simply borrowed the money from him," said Dr. Romaine, "and gave him my six months' note in exchange for the money. There was no confidence game about it—nothing but a straight business proposition."

A detective who came here Saturday night to take Romaine back to Indianapolis did not have the proper papers, and as Romaine refuses to go without extradition, his case will be taken up before Governor Ammons probably today. The detective, it is said, dashed into police headquarters, said that he had only a few moments to catch a train, and asked for his prisoner. He claimed to have proper papers, but they were found to be faulty and the police refused to surrender Romaine.

Dr. Romaine, known here also as St. Claire, declares that he does not claim to be a clairvoyant, nor to possess mystic powers. "I am a phrenologist, and I do not make any charge for my readings," he said. "A reading goes free with a year's subscription to my magazine, 'The Illumined Life,' and there is no mystery about it."

Says Charge Trumped Up

"It is too bad that this charge should be trumped up against me. All I have in the world is invested here in Colorado Springs, where I expect to make my home. My magazine is now on the press, and during my incarceration in the jail I have been trying to revise proofs and to write editorials. And the surroundings are not exactly of the best for that kind of work.

"I have spent considerable time in Colorado Springs during the last four or five years. A year ago or more I was here as manager for Madame Elizabeth Severn, who was well known to many of the best people in the city. There is no mystery of any kind about me or my work. All I want is a chance to make an honest living."

Dr. Romaine says that he never was known as Victor Bernard, but that he was in Bernard's office in Indianapolis for a time. According to the story brought to the police here from the Indianapolis detective, Romaine left the Indiana city about the time that a young woman, known here as Miss Blanche Wilson, and alleged to be the wife of a prominent Indianapolis man, also went away. It is alleged that her husband gave her $800 to take a trip to New York and that soon afterward Dr. Romaine borrowed $100 and left the city. Dr. Romaine says that the girl known as Miss Wilson is here for her health, and denies that she left her husband for him. He does not deny, however, that she is married.

SPECIAL EASTER SERVICE GIVEN AT THE Y. M. C. A.

The mass meeting for men in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A. building yesterday afternoon was made a special Easter service, with Easter music a feature. Two musical numbers were given by the chorus of the First Presbyterian church, and the boys' choir of that church, under the direction of Mrs. Edgar, sang three additional selections.

The address was delivered by the Rev. Samuel Garvin, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. He took the fifteenth chapter of First Corinthians for his scripture guide, saying, in part:

"According to the scripture, Christ died for the sins of the world, and according to the scripture, he rose again on the third day. The resurrection of the immortal is proof of the resurrection of Christ. The resurrection was not the miracle—the death of Christ was. His resurrection was a natural thing. There was no immortality in the Old Testament among the Hebrews. It was necessary in the order of things that Christ should be raised.

Christ said: "I am the resurrection and the life." There was no hesitation and no "if" about it. Paul said: "We are not to claim immortality because Jesus rose from the dead, but rather, immortality is the natural result of the Christ life." We are immortal because of the quality of the soul or the life we lead here.

If we rise to the life Jesus led we are immortal. We must of necessity be immortal here if we would be immortal hereafter. The death of Jesus was the miracle; the resurrection was normal.

Paul said: "If the fact of the resurrection is not there, then we are false witnesses." Men cannot preach the gospel and deny the resurrection. Take the case of the disciples—men will not lie for a chance to suffer martyrdom. If Jesus was not raised from the dead, then there is no salvation for us. We throw away all hope unless we possess the one thing for which the religion of Jesus Christ stands—the forgiveness of sins and resurrection.

We must admit the miracle of Jesus Christ himself. Why should we take the unnatural way rather than the natural one? Behold the natural; Jesus Christ was the Son of God.

LOSS ONLY $400

It was erroneously announced yesterday that the loss caused by fire at the home of A. Spies, 2408 North Chestnut street, Saturday afternoon, was about $2,500. The loss was only about $400, and is fully covered by insurance. The almost total destruction of the house by the fire was due partly to the fact that it is five or six blocks from the nearest fire alarm box, and partly to the length of the run which the fire department had to make.

SANITY QUESTIONED

T. G. Montgomery was arrested yesterday morning and is being held pending investigation of his sanity. It is alleged that he was despondent and threatened to commit suicide.

"Billy" Dunning Gets Local Color for "The Isle of Kal-to-Kee"

"Billy" Dunning has returned. The jovial host of the Antlers came back yesterday from Salt Lake City, where he has been spending 10 days with friends, and was much surprised to find that people here were worried about his whereabouts.

"The story that I had gone for a trip to the South Sea islands was a rank press agent fake," said Mr. Dunning. "I will admit that I took my lines for 'The Isle of Kal-to-Kee' with me and spent most of the time while traveling learning them, and now I have them letter perfect. While in Salt Lake City I met a crowd of South Sea islanders who were doing vaudeville and inquired as to their customs and actions. I believe that I can now interpret the finer feelings of the native of that far-off clime."

ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF PUBLIC DRINKING

H. Millar and J. Bryan were arrested yesterday afternoon on charges of drinking in North park. A companion whose name was not learned, escaped when he saw the officers coming. They will be given a hearing in police court this morning.

FIGHTING FLIES AND MOSQUITOES

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

best remedies for the spread of mosquitoes. It is sprayed upon the surface of standing waters as well as upon the swampy lands. A thin film or scum of iridescent hue is formed by the oil. This not only destroys larvae and pupae, but will kill any adult mosquito which alights upon the surface of the water.

The fact that all malarial districts were infected with mosquitoes did not connect the mosquitoes with the cause of the malady until a comparatively recent period, although now the theory generally is accepted that certain species of mosquitoes unquestionably are instrumental in spreading the disease. Dr. Ronald Ross of the Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine is credited with first discovering the relation between mosquitoes and malaria, nearly 15 years ago, in India. His results soon were confirmed by the rest of the world and opened a new medium for overcoming a malady that seriously interferes with the development of many localities. The lands of the Delta region of the Mississippi are among the most fertile in the world, yet they have been largely left undeveloped because of the prevalence of malaria, which prevented occupancy by any but negroes, who are more resistant to malaria than white people. With a properly arranged system for the banishment of the mosquitoes that infest that locality, it is believed that the land could be so improved in value as to become an enormous addition to the agricultural resources of Louisiana. This is well recognized in New Orleans, and the measures which have been taken so actively to improve the sanitary conditions of that city during the past two years now are being extended to adjacent lands. A systematic method of providing for the oiling and drainage of these lands is now under consideration.

One of the most effective measures for the prevention of the increase of mosquitoes is the introduction of gold fish and silver fish in slow-running streams, as well as in artificial ponds and lakes. A large railroad company in the middle west undertook to clear the region through which its trains passed from the annoyance of these insects, and for that purpose imported thousands of these fish from Japan, stocking all the adjacent small streams with them. A remarkable decrease in the number of mosquitoes was apparent after a single year. Top minnows of several species also have been found to feed upon mosquito larvae, and certain species of these have been introduced from Texas into Hawaii with good results.

(Copyright by Harris & Ewing.)

Mrs. Josephus Daniels, wife of the new secretary of the navy, is a sister of Ensign Worth Bagley, who was the only line officer to meet death in the Spanish-American war. Mrs. Daniels is president of the Raleigh chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy and vice president of the state chapter of this organization. The Colonial Dames is another society of which she is an active member, and she is a member of the Society of Sponsors of Battleships, having christened the torpedo boat Bagley, named in honor of her brother.

A SNAKE CHARMER'S DEATH

From the Dundee Advertiser.

Five hundred snake charmers, sounding weird notes on their pipes, formed the unusual, yet picturesque procession that followed to his grave Katch Sarak, a man of big renown in his business, who died in terrible agony as the result of a cobra bite received while practicing his profession in the neighborhood of Garden Reach, India. "Guru," or god, he had become dubbed by the people among whom he lived, such was his influence over poisonous reptiles. His services were sought by a neighbor who had missed many fowls from his compound. Going at dusk one day, the snake charmer discovered a cobra of unusual size among the birds, so formidable, in fact, that he postponed his attempt to capture it until daylight, when he was successful in securing it. Instead of dispatching the snake at once, he took it to the local bazar for the edification of the natives. On attempting to extract its fangs the cobra wriggled free and darted at its captor, who was bitten on three fingers. The "guru's" supposed godlike qualities proved of no avail. Consternation reigned among the crowd as he lay in awful agony; the news of his plight spread swiftly through the bazar, and more than 100 other snake charmers scurried to the scene, but all their efforts, all their devices, their earnest prayers were of no avail against the powerful poison. Within 90 minutes Katch Sarak was dead.

With good reason is Guatemala known as "the land of the six-cent dollar." Its currency has steadily shrunk in value, until now the Guatemalan dollar is worth about six cents in gold.

TRAVELS OF A DROP OF WATER

From Harper's Weekly.

A German has made a calculation of the time that elapses before a drop of water evaporated on the surface returns to the ocean. The total volume of water brought annually to the sea is 1-3460 of the total contents of the ocean. A particle of water before evaporation has stayed in the ocean on an average 3,460 years. Once evaporated, the drop becomes condensed in about 10 days and is then speedily drawn back to its ancient home.

At The Theater

"EXCUSE ME," THE LAUGH, TONIGHT

Broadway is laughing yet at "Excuse Me," the Rupert Hughes farce that, under the management of Henry W. Savage, ran all last season and for several weeks this season at the Gaiety theater, a total of eight months. Just say "excuse me" to anybody on Broadway, and you'll send that person off into peals of wildest merriment. It doesn't matter for what reason you say "excuse me," it's always a laugh, even when its an apology, for the expression suggests the farce of that name and every hint of the play produces howls of glee. Therefore, all you who come to the Grand Opera house tonight prepare for the laugh of your lives, for "Excuse Me" will be there to show those who see it that they have more laughs in their system than ever they dreamed were in them.

Nobody knows how many kinds of laughs and how much laughter they are capable of until they see "Excuse Me." Here is a play that is gaiety and laughter and merriment and glee and hilarity and everything else that is mirth tickling from the first moment the curtain goes up until the next year, for there'll be laughter at the very thought of "Excuse Me" for 12 months to come. It is a comedy on a railroad train. All the action is on an Overland express running across the continent. The scenes are in the cars and the characters are the passengers and train crew. More things happen on this trip than on any other in the history of railway travel, and everything is a laugh every mile and every minute of the way. Those who miss "Excuse Me" will be ashamed they'll have to say "excuse me" when they're asked about their failure to enjoy the jolliest, merriest, cleverest and best farce ever. You really ought to laugh, you know. It does one a heap of good. See "Excuse Me" and laugh all the way from Chicago to Reno and all next year.

SCENE FROM "EXCUSE ME" AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT.

SCENE FROM "MAGGIE PEPPERS," IN WHICH ROSE STAHL APPEARS AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE TOMORROW NIGHT.

THE WOMEN YOU MEET

"Charles Klein is a highbrow. In ordinary conversation he can talk language that would send a college professor to a dictionary. But give him credit for coming down out of the clouds to give us an ordinary mortal like 'Maggie Pepper,'" said Miss Rose Stahl, who comes to the Grand Opera house tomorrow night.

"It takes a highbrow to appreciate modern types and American slang, anyhow. And right here, I'd like to register a protest against having all picturesque Americanisms put in the slang class. The things Maggie Pepper has to say here are not strictly slang. They are simply the piquant things of every day that mean more than all the sonorous English that could be evolved by a laborious grammarian. When Maggie Pepper faces the great crisis and says simply, 'So you put it up to me, do you?' she says the whole thing. The dramatist might have made her say, 'So you throw the burden of the decision upon the shoulders of a poor, helpless, working woman?' But it wouldn't have the snap or the carrying power.

"I love Maggie Pepper as I thought I should never love anyone but Patricia O'Brien. She is sure to make a wider appeal. And she represents a type of working girl that I've studied for a long time. Whenever I go into a department store the women fascinate me. I wonder how they get along, what is going on under their pompadours, and I wish they'd let me in on their love affairs and their fights and their confidences."

JOHN DREW

Charles Frohman will present John Drew in "The Perplexed Husband," a comedy by Alfred Sutro, at the Grand Opera house, Monday, March 31. This four-act play attracted continental attention when it was first produced in London this year, where it scored a tremendous success. After the American rights were obtained for Mr. Drew, the author came over to personally stage the piece, which recently was given a brilliant presentation at the Empire theater, New York.

"The Perplexed Husband" is a frank satire of the whole feminist movement, and yet the upholders of the cause are given a creditable hearing. It presents Mr. Drew in his best comedy manner, and also holds him to several scenes of genuine emotion which makes demands upon his skill as an artist as well as upon his gifts and habits as a comedian.

A London tea merchant, commonplace and happy, returns from a month's selling trip to find his home invaded during his absence. His wife has decided to cease being a doll, a parasite, a sultana, the leader of his harem—and branches out "to live her own life." Instead of a loving wife he has on his hands a "new woman," who knows her husband to be "a strange man" to her. So she moves her belongings upstairs.

The tea merchant's saner and more conventional sister advises him to fight fire with fire; to import a Greek soul who has been working in his office, in the person of a beautiful young girl with a passion for the lovely in all things. In the meantime he pretends to be converted to "the cause," and gives as an excuse for introducing the girl into the house that he wishes her to be converted also.

Immediately the fires of jealousy are kindled; the Greek soul and the creator of theories discover a mutual attraction and run away to Athens; the other thinker is pathetically deserted, and the wife returns to the arms of her conventional spouse, who admits that she need not feel the defeat too badly.

HOW THE FRENCH 'MUG' CROOKS

From Herbert Corey's New York Letter.

NEW YORK—A detective whose sphere of action is international visited police headquarters here, the other day. He happened upon a photograph of Lascasas Bagg. Colonel Bagg is one of our most ingenious and successful swindlers. His picture had been taken when Colonel Bagg was apparently in great pain. His face was wrinkled up, his mouth jarred open at an angle, and his eyes were fairly popping out of his head by reason of the pressure of a thumb and some lusty fingers, applied to the nape of his neck.

"Why," said the visiting detective, "do not American police officers make use of up-to-date methods? Who would ever recognize Colonel Lascasas Bagg from this distorted portrait?"

He told of the manner in which the French police handle criminals who hate to be mugged. Instead of piling half a dozen detectives on the obstreperous rascal, getting all concerned red eyed and heated, the French detectives carefully strap the sinner to a large wooden cross. His arms and legs are made fast, a large surcingle surrounds his middle, and his chin is propped at the right angle. Then the strapped individual is carried to the photograph gallery in the police station, the light is turned on, the photographer focuses his camera, lights a cigarette, and sits down to wait. No matter how desperate the man under arrest may be, the time will come when, from sheer fatigue, he will permit his features to slip back to their proper place. Then—click—the trick is turned.

Arminius Haeberle, a St. Louis (Mo.) man in the United States consular service, has just been ordered from Tegucigalpa, Honduras, where it's always 85 degrees or hotter, to Vladivostok, Siberia, one of the coldest spots in the world.
